

Bryan Kinsey

Assistant Director, Division of Property Assessments

Bryan Kinsey is an Assistant Director in the Tennessee Comptroller's Division of Property Assessments. Bryan leads the Division's five field offices across the state and oversees Tennessee's Integrated Multi-Processing of Administrative and CAMA Technology (IMPACT) system. Bryan also guides the Division's Office of Local Government which utilizes GIS technology to serve assessors, election officials and other local government entities throughout Tennessee.

Bryan began his career with the Comptroller's Office in 1992. He spent 20 years working for the Division of Property Assessment's Jackson field office. During that time he earned the Assessment Administration Specialist (AAS) designation with the International Association of Assessing Officers (IAAO) as well as the Tennessee Certified Assessor (TCA) and Tennessee Master Assessor (TMA) certifications with the State Board of Equalization. Bryan became Area Manager of the Jackson field office in 2008. Bryan was promoted to Assistant Director and relocated to the Nashville office in 2012.

Bryan holds a bachelor's degree and a Masters of Business Administration from the University of Tennessee at Martin. He is also a graduate of three of the state's premier leadership development programs: Tennessee Government Management Institute (TGMI), LEAD Tennessee, and Tennessee Government Executive Institute (TGEI). Bryan is an active member of the IAAO, and has held several leadership roles at both the state and national level. In 2009 he was awarded the Tennessee Chapter's Ray D. Kennedy, CAE Achievement Award and received the Member of the Year Award in 2017. In November 2017, Bryan was elected to serve on the Executive Board of IAAO for a three-year term running from 2018 through 2020.

Bryan and his wife Thao have two children, Isabella and Brandon. The Kinsey family lives in Mt. Juliet, Tennessee.
